Final Plans For Hospital Nearly Set

Final plans for the hospital will be completed and will be presented to the Board of Supervisors sometime next week," Wilfred Dawson, Gulfport architect for the proposed Hill-Burton hospital, told the Echo Wednesday.

Mr. Dawson appeared before the Board of Supervisors Sept. 2 and reported the plans would be ready in "about 10 days." He said he was awaiting approval for a number of changes recommended by the Mississippi State Commission for Hospital Care.

"I received a letter from Foster Fowler, executive secretary of the commission, Sept. 12, authorizing us to proceed with the final drawings. We are working ahead of what is anticipated by the commission and I rather believe it will be next week when we can submit the plans to the supervisors and send the final plans to the commission," the architect said.

A series of delays in the plans has occurred since the first stage plans were drawn. Mr. Dawson stressed the fact that the final plans are ahead of schedule as far as the commission is concerned.

The architect said he had every reason to believe that advertisement for bids for the hospital could begin by Oct. 15, the date he originally had estimated for such action.

TWISTED MOTOR SCOOTER CARRIED YOUTHS
Carl Bally and Ernest Netto Are in Hospital

Two Youths Are Hurt As Scooter Hits Auto

An unlicensed youth driving a motor scooter struck the stopped car of Justice of the Peace Nolan S. Lader at 6:10 p.m. Monday on Dunbar Ave.

The youth, Carl Bally, 12, son of Mrs. Elaine J. Bally of Boardman Ave., and passenger on the scooter, Ernest Netto, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Netto of Boardman Ave., were injured and taken to Gulfport Memorial Hospital, where their condition were listed as fairly good.

Bally suffered a fractured femur and slight lacerations of the right leg. Netto suffered a fractured ankle.

Mark Gowen of 307 Boardman Ave., witness to the accident, verified Justice Lader's report that the motor scooter was approaching the automobile at about 35 miles an hour on the left side of the street. Justice Lader swerved and came to a complete stop before the motor scooter hit his car.

City Patrolman Jack Lader reported that Bally, who has no driver's license, and Netto were delivering newspapers at the time of the accident.

The three arrested men had a special hearing before U. S. Commissioner Irene Herbert at Biloxi Tuesday. Bonds of $750 were placed on each of the men and they later were released on property bonds.

Court Continues $100,000 Suits Until March Term

Three $100,000 slander and libel suits were continued until the March term of Hancock County Circuit Court during the trial of one of the suits Tuesday morning.

Norton Haas, president of the Hancock County Hospital Board of Trustees, and Frank Selph, a hospital board trustee, each are suing T. T. Reboil, also a hospital trustee, for $100,000, charging that Mr. Reboil "damaged their good names and reputations with malicious design by his insulting remarks" made before a meeting of the Board of Supervisors Aug. 4.

Mr. Haas also has filed a similar suit against Samuel Ballard, former editor and publisher of the Sea Coast Echo, charging that a page one editorial written by Mr. Ballard "greatly damaged his good name and reputation. He further charged that injuries, humiliation and damages" as a result of the editorial.

Mr. Selph and Mr. Haas are represented by Lucien M. Gex, Robert L. Genin and Earl Wingo, the latter a Hattiesburg attorney. Mr. Dan M. Russell and Sam L. Favre Jr. are attorneys for Mr. Reboil and Mr. Ballard.

The suit set to trial Tuesday was Selph vs. Reboil. Mr. Haas' suits against Mr. Reboil and Mr. Ballard had been set for today.

Presiding Judge Leslie B. Grant of Biloxi overruled a motion by Mr. Selph's attorneys requesting the court to strike parts of the answer to the declaration filed by Mr. Reboil's attorney. The parts which the attorneys requested stricken concerned absolute and qualified privilege.

Mr. Wingo read in the declaration a part which stated that Mr. Reboil appeared before the Board of Supervisors not as an officer of the Board of Trustees but as a private citizen. He disclaimed absolute or qualified privilege.

Absolute privilege is defined as an exemption from liability for the speaking or publishing of defamatory words concerning another person based on the fact that the statement was made in the performance of a duty, political, judicial, social or personal, protecting the maker of the statement.

Genin and Russell On Election Board

Robert L. Genin and Dan M. Russell Jr., Bay St. Louis attorneys, have been appointed members of the Hancock County Election Commission, according to County Clerk A. C. Mitchell.

The third appointment has not been received by the clerk of courts.

The appointments are for two-year terms. Serving on the commission the previous term were Mr. Russell, Lucien M. Gex, Bay St. Louis attorney, and Alvin Genin, manager of the Cue Oil Co.

The appointments are made by Gov. J. P. Coleman, Secretary of State Heber Lader and Attorney General Joe Patterson.

Mr. Heitzmann explained that all bills and accounts receivable have not been received, causing the delay.

Mr. Green added that the final report should be completed soon.

ments made in legislative debates, in reports of military officers to their superiors in the line of duty, and statements made by judges, witnesses or jurors in trials in court.

Qualified privilege protects the speaker or publisher unless actual malice and knowledge of the falsity of the statement is shown and may be claimed where the communication is related to a matter of public interest, or where it was necessary to protect one's private interest, and was made to a person having and interest in the same matter.

After the motions were overruled, the attorneys for Mr. Selph and Mr. Haas requested a continuance of all three cases.

Court recessed until today, with two cases set for call. One (Please turn to Page 4)

Miss America To Tour Coast Cities Oct. 7

Miss America, Mississippi's Mary Ann Mobley, with tour the Gulf Coast cities Oct. 7, Bay St. Louis Mayor John Seaford said today. Miss Mobley will arrive that morning at the Gulfport airport and will be driven to Waveland where her tour will begin. After touring the entire coastal area as far as Moss Point she will be honored at a banquet that night. A planning meeting of coastal mayors will be Monday.

Services for Claude Hubert Bourgeois, 53, of 953 Ticheloup Place, New Orleans, a summer resident of St. Joseph's St., Waveland, who died at 4 a.m. Monday in his New Orleans home, were Tuesday morning in Schoen funeral home, New Orleans.

The Rev. Father Hecks officiated at the requiem high mass which followed in Our Lady of the Holy Rosary Catholic Church, New Orleans. Burial was in Greenwood Cemetery, New Orleans.

Bearers were Chris Fiebig and nephews, John Funk, Guy Funk, Raymond Marrero, Lucien Marrero and Rene Marrero.

Born at Waveland, Mr. Bourgeois was the son of Louis Severin and Mary Agnes Coffey Bourgeois. When he was 25 he moved to New Orleans, where he was employed at the time of death as a clerical worker for the Jackson Brewery Co.

His summer home was at Waveland. He was a member of the Pere Le Duc Council Knights of Columbus, at Bay St. Louis. His wife is the former Marie Wagner.

Surviving are his wife, a son, Claude Jr., a daughter, Linda Ann, and a brother, Oswald, all of New Orleans, and three sisters, Mrs. Joseph (Agnes)

The condition of George Anderson is reported to be "greatly improved" at Hancock County Hospital where he was taken Sept. 8 after a severe heart attack at his residence on Touline St.

Housing Authority Approves Sewage Disposal Contract

Approval of the Bay St. Louis Housing Authority sewage disposal contract awarded to Roger Heitzmann for his low bid of $37,700 was given Wednesday by the Public Housing Authority in Atlanta.

Executive Director George Heitzmann of the local authority announced that he expects work on the disposal units which will be built in both the Ballentine St. and the Washington St. projects will begin between Oct. 1 and Oct. 15.

Wallace Bontemps, chairman of the board of directors of the City Housing Authority, returned from Atlanta Tuesday night after conferring with PHA officials about the proposed sewage units here. The local director said.

Mr. Heitzmann explained that delay in beginning the projects results from further negotiations with the PHA in Atlanta.

Zengering of Bay St. Louis and Mrs. Eugene Funk and Mrs. Virginia Marrero, both of Baton Rouge, La.

His parents and three brothers, Robert M., Louis Severin Jr. and Clarence Thomas Bourgeois, have died.

Consolidated School Project Is Advancing

"We are behind schedule but we are rapidly catching up," said Charles L. Proffer of Kuykendall and Proffer, Gulfport architectural engineers, commissioned to design and build a consolidated elementary and junior and senior high school building at Kiln.

The school, seven miles north of Kiln, was scheduled for completion Jan. 15. Six weeks of bad weather and a two-week electrical strike since awarding of the contract March 29 will make total completion impossible by the due date, Mr. Proffer said, although his firm does hope to have the junior-senior high school wing of the four-part school open by then.

Three other wings, for elementary classes, gymnasium and band, and shop courses, will open later, he added.

Three contractors are involved in the construction, Mr. Proffer said, naming the McClelland Building Service of Gulfport, general contractor; Stevenson's Radio and Electric Service of Bay St. Louis, electrical contractors; and Pilsch Plumbing Co. of Biloxi, mechanical contractors.

Most of the necessary materials have been procured, the architect said, except for fabricated millwork, doors and floorboards for which he anticipates a delay.

Players To Repeat Comedy Sept. 27

BY ROBIN CROSS

Demand for a repeat performance of "Time Out for Ginger," which was presented successfully last weekend by Bay St. Louis Little Theatre, has been answered and the play will be given again Sept. 27 on the Little Theatre stage.

Most successful debut of the past performance was the unseen one of Ben T. Wood, director and scene designer, under whose guidance the talented amateur actors were able to convey the very humor of John Alexander's three-act play, which is literally stuffed with effective repartee.

The story of 14-year-old Ginger Carol, who overnight becomes a varsity football star, and her patient family who await her inevitable renunciation of football for more girlish pursuits, is a perfectly chosen one for such a group.

Of special interest to friends of the players was the appearance of two parent-child acting teams. The leading part of Howard Carol, banker father of Ginger, was played with near professional aplomb by Paul White.

Mrs. White's carrot-haired daughter, Toni, gave a wistfully sincere aura to the title role of the blooming adolescent who grows from Tomboy to pre-debutante. It is possible, though, that she could have shown a greater range of emotion in her depiction of the pangs of "growing pains."

Mrs. Roy Wiggins, as Ginger's mother, Agnes Carol, was at times in danger of stealing the show. Her quietly effective delivery of some of the play's best lines was particularly well received.

Miss Dona Wiggins, who played Jeannie Carol, was a charming addition to her mother's stage family. A third daughter, Joan, was well portrayed by Miss Paula Kimbrell.

Dr. A. T. Butterworth showed himself a skilled comedian in the role of the bank president, right-fistfully dubious at the thought of having his employee's daughter, Ginger, become the star of the high school football team. Two of his scenes were highlights of the show.

Touchingly realistic portrayals of the awkwardly half-polished quality of teenage manhood were given by Johnnie Sauter, who played Eddie Davis, and Teddy Stuchmann, who played Tommy Green.

The cast was completed by Miss Ellen Allison as Lizzie, the maid, the only character indifferent to the tumultuous emotions of the script, and William G. Gaudet as Mr. Wilson, the indignant high school principal who threatens to have Ginger expelled for invading the grid-iron.

Mr. Wood was assisted in the building of the set by Miss Kimbrell, Mrs. C. D. Blair, Steve Wilson and Teddy Stuchmann.

Production committees were headed by Mr. Wilson, sound effects; Mrs. Ezekia Ling, stage manager and props; Mrs. Julian Lorenzen and Mrs. James Ansley, make-up; Mrs. Martha Allison, back stage assistant; Lloyd Cuevas, back stage manager, and Mrs. John Husband, production manager.

MRS. CLAUDE THOMAS MICHEL JR.
The former Carole Ann Mossy.

Michel-Mossy

Of interest locally was the wedding in New Orleans on August 30 of Miss Carole Ann Mossy, daughter of Mrs. Rene Desommes, to Mr. Claude Thomas Michel, Jr., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Thomas Michel, Sr., all of New Orleans.

St. Rose de Lima Church was the scene of the double ring ceremony which was performed by the Rt. Rev. Edward Prendergast.

Early autumn flowers and greenery provided a beautiful background as the young couple exchanged their vows before a large gathering of relatives and friends.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, Mr. Desommes, the blonde bride was radiant in an autumnal gown of candlelight pink de soie. The fitted bodice of the formal gown featured a pink collar accented with ruffled, ruffled lace trimmed with clusters of seed pearls. Made on ruffled lines, the gown's skirt had flowing side drapes of matching material and was trimmed with lace where the cathedral train joined the skirt.
